Advantages of deploying a Litigation Management Solution

Litigation Management by itself, is a complex affair. And the higher the volume of dispute matters, the complexity is also increased. From keeping track of multiple hearing dates across numerous forums, managing voluminous case documents, tracking and responding to notices within timelines, from preparing replies, forecasting potential liabilities and managing budgets (especially overshoots) to documenting/updating interactions with internal stakeholders and external lawyers, the activities required under appropriate litigation management are varied, vast and can be cumbersome. Add to this the complexity of regional languages and you will begin to understand the practical challenges involved.
